Haskell's Funeral

LAWRENCE, December 20 —The funeral of obsequies of the late Dudley C Haskell were held to day The business portion of the city and many of the residences were draped, flags were floating at half mast, bells tolled and business houses closed The city was crowded with representative citizens from all parts of the state, all the state officials and the attendant senators and congressmen from Washington and members of the press

The funeral services were held at the Congregational church, of which Mr Haskell was an active member Hon John A. Kasson, of Iowa, delivered a brief eulogy which concluded in most touching and eloquent language Dr Richard Condley, of Emporia, formerly pastor of the church, spoke He appealed so feelingly to the emotions of his hearers that there was not a dry eye in the audience of over 2,000 people Dr James Maine and Rev George H Scott also spoke in glowing terms of Mr Haskell's character and noble life

At Oakdale cemetery the exercises were very impressive The Knights Templar, the Blue lodge the congressional committee and the family of the deceased formed a large circle about the grave Prayer was offered by Rev Dr Condley and the remains of Dudley C Haskell were committed to earth Members of the congressional committee took formal leave of Mrs Haskell and at 5 30 the Washington party left by special train for the east

Inter-State Commerce

WASHINGTON, December 20 The bill introduced by Senator Cullom to establish a board of railroad commissioners to regulate inter state commerce provides for the appointment by the president of a board of five commissioners at a salary of $5,000 each, who shall exercise supervision over inter state commerce on railroads, canals and other transportation companies and investigate all complaints made by railroad commissioners of states and other discriminations in charges made by such transportation companies in their service as common carriers.

Southern Pacific Land Grant

WASHINGTON, December 20 —Among the papers transmitted to the senate by the secretary of the interior relative to the transfer of the Texas Pacific land grant to the Southern Pacific is a letter from A P Huntington to Secretary Teller in which he says the construction of the main line connecting the Texas Pacific company and the San Francisco portion of the Southern Pacific was an undertaking which proved of too great magnitude for the Texas Pacific to complete within the time prescribed and a distance of about 500 miles between the eastern boundary of California and the Rio Grande was constructed by the Southern Pacific and is now in operation by an agreement, Mr Huntington says, between the Texas Pacific and the Southern Pacific roads The right to acquire lands granted the Texas Pacific have been transferred by that company to the Southern Pacific, which constructed and equipped the road, thereby in effect earning the lands Litigation in regard to the Southern Pacific companies as to that portion of the route had been settled by a decree of the court In accordance with the terms of such agreement co operation became necessary, Huntington says, in order to ensure prompt completion of the line to the Pacific The provisions of the act and amendments have, Huntington asserts, been substantially complied with, and the president of the Southern Pacific company having prepared necessary papers as evidence of the completion in order that a commission might be appointed to examine and report to the president of the United States By letter dated March 30, '83, Charles A Crocker, president of the Southern Pacific railroad of New Mexico and Arizona, informs the president of the United States that on the 18th of January, '82, the Texas Pacific Railroad company sold all franchises, rights, grants, etc, in New Mexico and Arizona to the Southern Pacific company in those territories and all its franchises etc, in California to the Los Angeles & San Diego Railroad company. The Southern Pacific companies of New Mexico and Arizona ask that a commissioner be appointed to examine their roads and report, and if the president is satisfied that the roads have been fully completed the secretary of the interior shall be directed to issue patents of land to which the companies are severally entitled

The correspondence of Secretary Teller opposes the appointment of a commissioner and advises congressional investigation.

Wants of the Colored Men

WASHINGTON, December 20 —The executive committee appointed at the late Louisville colored convention resumed its session to-day with full attendance A committee appointed to draw up a memorial to congress in regard to the Freedman's bank made a report recounting the provisions of the charter of the bank, which authorized deposits to be invested in United States bonds only. Investments, however, were made in real estate which resulted in losses and the closing of the bank. Colored people were under the belief that the government was responsible for the safe keeping of their savings. In the method adopted by congress for winding up the affairs of the corporation they believe the insolvency law was violated. In consideration of these facts the memorial prays that the necessary appropriation be made to fully indemnify creditors for all losses sustained Memorials were reported in favor of national aid to education in states found by the census illiterate, and in regard to political outrages in the south which memorialists say demand protection of the American people toward the colored people.

A memorial on civil rights was reported by a committee of which Fred Douglass and Register Bruce are members It endorsed the decision of Justice Harlan and urged the passage of the Wilson amendment and the Edmunds bill The memorials gave rise to discussion, but were finally adopted

Railroad Rates

NEW YORK, December 20 —A meeting of passenger agents of trunk lines met to day, Commissioner Pierson presiding They agreed on a new form of ticket to be adopted for reduced rates and a form was decided upon which renders them less convenient for the scalper to handle They also agreed as to the policy to be pursued in case lines west of the joint executive committee's territory failed to conclude favorable negotiations pending looking to the restoration of harmonious action between them and the lines of the joint executive committee Although the Delaware, Lackawanna & Western is not a member of the passenger pool, a representative of that road was present who stated that his road was willing to go hand in hand with trunk lines in the matter of rates No further reduction of rates was considered necessary at present until the result of the last move was fully tested.

At the meeting a standing committee was appointed to consider the subject of the maintenance of east bound and west bound freight rates It was resolved that whenever authorized through freight rates are not strictly adhered to or evaded the commissioner shall give prompt notice of the reduction and rates on articles upon which rates are not maintained shall be reduced to the basis of the lowest reduced rates The resolution takes effect December 24 It was also resolved that the commissioner shall announce similar reductions on the resolution passed March 11th, '81. Notice was given all roads members of the committee, or those exchanging traffic with them, that the above resolutions will be acted upon strictly and promptly Members of the committee requested strict enforcement of the present established rates. Trunk line arbitrators, Messrs Adams, Gault and Riddle, again heard appeals to-day, but failed to complete their work

Commissioner Fink appended the following to the resolutions in sending them to the various roads "Please advise me of the receipt of this and say whether you will take prompt action for the maintenance of rates commencing Monday next."

XLVIII Congress

SENATE

WASHINGTON December 20 —Cullom introduced a bill to establish boards of railroad commissioners and regulate inter state commerce

Van Wyck's resolution about lands granted railroads was called up

Ingalls declared the resolution proper but objected to the preamble tending to commit the senate to the interpretation of the decision of the supreme court

Van Wyck insisted that his preamble was correct In the course of debate he referred to opinions of Attorney General Devens and Justice Harlan on the same subject and criticised the opinions as well as the practice of the general land office following the law laid down by those opinions rather than by the supreme court of the United States Replying to a question of Allison in regard to Justice Harlan's opinion Van Wyck said, strange, indeed marvelous things had taken place in the supreme court as well as the land department of the government in reference to public lands He (Van Wyck) thought the senator from Iowa (Allison) would concede at least that there was abundant evidence in his (Allison's) state and in the sufferings of its people by deprivation of their property Millions of acres of the public domain had been given to railroads Van Wyck said before the supreme court decision referred to which they were not entitled to under that decision and although for a time the general land office followed—that decision is finally followed the opinion of Attorney General Devens and Justice Harlan This course Van Wyck censured

The discussion closed by the insertion in the preamble of the words 'It is alleged' so as not to commit the senate to any special interpretation of the supreme court decision

As amended Van Wyck's resolution was agreed to The senate then went into executive session and on reopening resumed consideration of the new rules but after a short debate the matter was postponed till after the holiday recess

Bills were introduced by Miller of New York, to authorize the secretary of war to erect a monument to the late General Warren Brown, to authorize distillation of fruit without tax by the federal government leaving the question to the state

A message was received from the house concurring in the senate amendment making the date of reassembling after the holidays Monday, January 7th

The chair laid before the senate a communication from the secretary of the interior transmitting copies of papers relating to the attempted transfer of the Texas Pacific railroad company's land grant to the Southern Pacific Railway company of Arizona, New Mexico and California The secretary concludes his communication with the statement that no action has been taken by the department on the subject

The senate concurred in a joint resolution of the house relating to the celebration of the centenary of the surrender by Washington of his commission as commander in chief of the patriot forces of America

Adjourned till Monday

HOUSE

A long discussion sprang up concerning a month's extra pay to discharged employes It was advocated by Reagan and opposed by Geddes and Keifer on the ground that the house had no right to be charitable with other people's money, and by Cobb on the ground that it would include in its provisions persons put on the rolls at the closing of last session

Reagan moved to commit the resolution to the committee with instruction to inquire and report whether there were persons turned out of their positions at the close of the last session and others put in their places who had performed no duties Agreed to

Blackburn, from the committee on rules, reported a resolution that the committee hereafter consist of fifteen members the committees on banking and currency, foreign affairs, territories, public buildings, District of Columbia thirteen members each He stated that the increased membership fully met the views of the speaker The resolution was adopted

Blackburn called up the report submitted yesterday that the committee on river and harbors consist of fifteen members

Springer offered an amendment referring to the committee on Mississippi levees bills making appropriations for improvement of the Mississippi He considered the improvement of this great highway a question of sufficient importance worthy a special committee At present the Mississippi appropriation was used as a pack mule to carry through appropriations for other streams The Mississippi river should stand on its own merits as a great national highway and have all the fostering care congress could give it. The amendment was rejected and the original report adopted

Keifer called up the resolution reported yesterday for the appointment of a committee on woman suffrage

Reagan placed his opposition to the resolution on social and constitutional grounds He argued that the committee could not report a measure which any court could enforce or which would not be unconstitutional. He protested against kicking about the poor old constitution which had been so long forgotten Granting the right of suffrage to women would tend to degrade them Congress should not try to overturn the social status of the world

Belford asserted that it was competent for congress to pass a law prohibiting a state from preventing women participating in its government. If there were more female influence in political arrangements the country even the morals of the house of representatives might improve

Keifer spoke in favor of the appointment of a special committee to which should be referred all petitions and measures pertaining to the subject of woman suffrage If it were unconstitutional to grant the right of suffrage by law it was competent for congress to amend the constitution so as to enfranchise woman, and the progress of events pointed towards that advanced step in civilization

The resolution was rejected yeas 88, nays 14

Hubbell, Iowa—from the special committee having the matter in charge, reported a joint resolution requesting the president to issue a proclamation recommending that the people either by appropriate exercises in connection with religious services on the 23d inst., or by such public exercises as they deem proper on the 24th commemorate the surrender by Washington of his commission as commander in chief of the army The president was also required to offer a national salute from the various forts of the country on the 24th The joint resolution passed

Henly asked leave to introduce a bill to amend an act to execute certain treaty stipulations with the Chinese

Weller objected, but subsequently withdrew his objection when it was renewed by Skinner of New York

OUR ADVERTISERS.

Appropriate Gifts and Where to Find Them.

Elegant Holiday Goods Carried by Our Merchants.

A Peep at the Millinors, Grocers, Tobacconists, Etc., Etc.

Yesterday we continued the mention of holiday advertisers in our columns and to day we will make notice of those we were unable to reach yesterday

GROCERIES

As a rule the grocers do not make any pretensions at keeping holiday goods, never thinking they always have something that is appropriate for gifts

For instance, Messrs Sherman & Ripley offer many articles that come under the head of staple and domestic groceries that are suitable as well as useful, viz Raisins fruits, nuts, sauces, canned goods pickles mince meats and fancy and domestic groceries of every description They also announce that they have just received a car load of choice apples and that their prices are as low as the lowest

Alvaro Homeway, the Huerfano street grocer offers inducements in the line of mixed candies nuts, standard canned goods dried fruits, queensware, hanging and table lamps He is making a specialty of choice coffees Java, Rio and Mocha, which he will guarantee to be the best in the market As for staple and domestic grocers he carries everything that can customarily be found in a first class grocery store

MEAT MARKET

Nott & Farrar, second door south of the postoffice, propose supplying their customers with everything in the way of poultry, game and in fact the best of meats of every description After January first this firm propose doing a strictly cash business They will give cash buyers the benefit of small margins

MILLINERS

Mr C S Lauder, who has recently opened a very attractive store on North Tejon street, offers innumerable novelties in the line of ladies' furnishing goods and millinery They have everything in the latest style, and guarantee satisfaction In connection with the millinery business they have employed the services of first class dressmakers We commend Mrs Lauder to the ladies in search of the latest novelties in millinery, dresses and furnishing goods

We also take pleasure in making mention of the excellent and well assorted stock of millinery goods displayed by Mrs Wood French flowers, birds, feathers, worsted goods are elaborately displayed on her shelves and in her show cases Mrs Wood does not carry ladies' furnishing goods, but makes a specialty of millinery If you want something suitable for the holidays inspect her stock of opera, riding and street hats

TOBACCONISTS

For those in quest of smokers' goods, including imported and domestic cigars, cigarettes chewing and smoking tobaccos, meerschaums and sweet briar pipes, no better stock can be found than at C. I. Albrecht's, just north of the postoffice He always keeps in stock the best of imported and domestic cigars and tobaccos and will be found a very agreeable gentleman to purchase of

ARTISTS' SUPPLIES

Mr Unsworth Brown is making a sacrifice sale of bronze printings, plastic plaques, etc., in order to make room for wall papers. Many of these articles will make suitable holiday gifts. He also carries a full supply of artists' materials, banner rods, and the new styled oblong plaques Those desirous of purchasing this class of goods will find it to their advantage to call on Mr Brown

TRUNKS AND SATCHELS

Trunks and satchels are always considered staple goods, but Mr H F O'Brien thinks that they are just as appropriate for holiday presents as a majority of the articles that other advertisers have to offer An inspection of the stock which he carries at his trunk store on Huerfano street will substantiate what he says Here can be found all that those who contemplate travelling most need

BOOTS AND SHOES

If you have occasion to want, or think your friends would appreciate a pair of boots, shoes slippers, dancing pumps or anything that can customarily be found in a first class boot and shoe store call on Mr F F Wheden He always aims to keep the stand and makes of all goods in his line He displays a line of goods that are useful as well as appropriate for holiday gifts

Railroad Wrecks

WHEELING W Va, December 20 —A passenger train from Chicago for Baltimore which left this city this morning at 8 4, having seven cars and two engines, left the track at a curve at Bellton while the train was going at a speed of 45 miles an hour The mail car turned completely over and all the cars fell on their sides but the sleeper which kept the track One engine was completely wrecked and all the cars badly damaged Express Messenger Hillman was the only person seriously hurt, though the train was unusually crowded

KANSAS CITY, December 20 —A switch engine belonging to Fort Scott railroad ran into a street car west of Kansas City late this evening The car was overturned and badly shattered It contained eighteen passengers All escaped serious injury There was no watchman at the crossing

Burned at Sea

LONDON, December 20 —A portion of the crew of the Spanish mail steamer Santa Augustine, from Marilla for Liverpool, have arrived at Dartmouth They report the steamer took fire Sunday night in the Bay of Biscay Eighty-two of the crew and passengers took to the boats The first boat reached an English brig, the second returned to the burning vessel and has not been heard from The third, with fourteen persons, landed at Dartmouth When these left the burning steamer there were thirty people on board It is thought they were rescued, as a steamer was seen bearing towards the burning steamship

A Coruuna, Spain, dispatch says "A brig landed here a portion of the crew of the steamer Santa Augustine" This is probably the brig which picked up the people of the first boat

The Bond Trial

ST LOUIS, December 20 —A special to the Post Dispatch from Hillsboro says Sheriff Haines of Taylorville was first witness this morning He testified that he and Attorney Drennon fitted the toe nail paring to Montgomery's toe at the jail. Montgomery was perfectly willing to have it done. The paring was thicker than Montgomery's toes It fitted one corner but the other size did not at all Witness put Clementi and Pettis in jail He examined Montgomery's clothing carefully It appeared to have been worn three or four days He saw no blood or other stains His testimony also offsets that of Convict Meyer who said defendants had a conversation the morning they were jailed

Prize Fight

NEW YORK December 20 —A prize fight, Queensbury rules took place this morning in a barn near Bilesville, Long Island, between Mike Kelly of Williamsburg and John Conners, of Brooklyn, for stakes of $100 a side Both were in nice condition Kelly weighing 168 and Conners 170 Three bloody rounds were fought Kelly not coming to time when the fourth round was called the money was awarded Conners Both were terribly punished and had to be assisted from the ring

A Railroad Rumor

CHICAGO December 20 —The rumor on the stock exchange reported from New York to the effect that the Northwestern, Wabash and Burlington had applied for admission to the tripartite alliance is fully credited

The contest for the chairmanship of the committee on foreign relations seems to be between Cox and Belmont. It is urged in favor of the former that his appointment will give the democrats the Irish vote of New York city

The Cincinnati Commercial shows a good deal of sense in the following paragraph: "It is a question whether it was becoming the dignity of the government of the United States to say anything about O Donnell. The case was perfectly clear. O Donnell murdered Carey because he was an informer, and it did not matter whether he was a citizen of the United States or not. The United States is not interested in murderers, even if they are avengers. The assassins and informers and the avengers must take chances. The United States is not concerned. England, we assume, will continue to rule both Ireland and Egypt."

Our Colorado representative made a bid for the Irish vote in his speech Wednesday night at the O Donnell sympathy meeting. But we think the Irish are too sensible to be influenced by such foolish talk. O Donnell was an assassin, and had not pluck enough to say so. To compare him with any great person is absurd. The denunciations of Lowell are exceedingly unjust. Because Mr Lowell is not demagogue enough to bid for the Irish vote as Messrs Belford, Calkins and Robinson of New York are doing, he is to be praised, not blamed. A United States minister to a court like Great Britain can be in better business than trying to save cowardly assassins from their just punishment. Mr Lowell's writings for thirty five years have shown him to be a strong American in all his sympathies and feelings. For the Finertys who have just come over from Ireland, and in no sense have become American in feeling, to impugn Mr Lowell's Americanism is at least audacious. Mr Lowell's Americanism needs no defense among Americans, and no defense of it can be made to the Finertys whose idea of an American citizen is one who hates England, loves Ireland, and whose chief purpose in life is to free the latter

John Morley, who has been an editorial writer for many years, recently addressed a workingmen's club and advised the members not to read leaders, but simply the news and form their own opinions. The advice is good in some ways. If the leaders are dangerous in tone and the workingmen read them exclusively and are greatly influenced by them, the evil is greater than the good conservative editorials can counterbalance. But better advice would be not to read exclusively leaders on one side. If both sides are read it is an advantage in forming an independent opinion. The news of a war gives little idea of the issues involved. Many readers cannot get the data for an opinion from the news and have not the time or books for a special study, and therefore it is necessary to consult editorials or some other similar discussion to aid in forming opinions. This is particularly important in the study of questions in sociology, or political science that the workingmen are most interested in. But they should not blindly follow any one paper, but read both sides. By doing this a much more intelligent and independent opinion will be formed than by simply reading the news

The New York Sunday Times, after a review of the facts connected with the recent agreement between the Union Pacific, Chicago, Milwaukee & St. Paul, and the Rock Island & Pacific, has the following to say about the prospects for a fight between the C, B & Q and U P: "As the C, B & Q is the road now most hardly struck at, that corporation is reported to be ready to open fight right off, and as the Union Pacific is the road to which its competition is most disastrous, Union Pacific stock has been falling in a way almost equal to the Villards. It fell below 78 yesterday. The street is talking about it turning out a Denver Number Two. Its doom would seem to have been sealed from the day that, with the extension of the C, B & Q to Denver, it ceased to be a monopoly and became a competitive road. Its old rates, which were so enormously high both for passengers and freight that they were felt by shippers and travelers to be intolerably extortionate, have been cut down to nominal figures and with them have gone the earnings. They are falling off month by month in a frightful way. Had the Union Pacific road been honestly managed it could easily have stood against all competitors and paid dividends right along with rates which would have been ruinous to them. But this is one of the Gould properties. He bought into it cheap as is his custom, nursed it up to a degree of prosperity, then put it through the usual process of consolidation and stock watering, and forth with sold out every share on the boom which was rising to its height in 1880. The stock watering he did with this company was beyond all question the most gigantic and most flagrant job of the kind which the history of railroading in the United States affords. The Western Union business is a trifle in comparison with it. He sold out leaving the road apparently in the height of prosperity, but in reality cleaned out, hollow, a shell ready to be cracked by the first hard blow of a competitor."

Those who care to know about the diplomatic correspondence in regard to O Donnell can get a good idea from the following Washington dispatch:

Thursday December 13th Secretary Frelinghuysen telegraphed to Minister Lowell, stating that the house of representatives had brought the case of O'Donnell to the president's notice, in the hope that the latter might secure a reasonable delay in the execution of the sentence, and ascertain whether the prisoner is an American citizen and whether there was error in the trial. In this telegram Mr Lowell is instructed as follows:

"As before instructed, you will consider O Donnell's citizenship established. There being in Great Britain no judicial examination on an appeal in proceedings at a criminal trial, possible errors can only be corrected through a new trial or executive action upon the sentence. Therefore this government is anxious that such careful examinations be given the proceedings in this case as to discover the error should one have been committed. You are therefore directed by the president to request the delay of the execution of sentence, and that a careful examination of the case be made by her majesty's government and that the prisoner's counsel be permitted to present any alleged points of error."

Secretary Frelinghuysen is now in receipt of a telegram from Mr. Lowell, who states that on the 12th he received the above telegram and immediately communicated the substance of it to Lord Granville, who acknowledged its receipt, and stated that it had been referred to the proper authorities. Also, on Saturday, the 15th instant, Mr Lowell received Lord Granville's reply, in which the latter, after referring to Mr Lowell's communication, stated that counsel for O Donnell having submitted the presentations he thought advisable on the prisoner's behalf, those representations and all other circumstances of the case had been carefully examined and considered in the manner usual in the case of capital conviction, and her majesty's government found no grounds upon which he would be justified in advising the crown to interfere in the sentence of the law or its execution

An Artist's Sad Misfortune

J Leonard Corning, in the Manhattan for January

The head of the Luther statue was the last object upon which the hand of Reitschel wrought during those sad, final days, when the tide of his mortal life was ebbing away. Sitting in his sick-chair, he bent wearily over the plaster mold of the Luther head, putting upon it the last finishing touches. He thought, upon a near view, that the head of the great reformer was finished to his satisfaction and that of the public. Yet when he viewed it at a distance from his chamber window, he detected points, I know not what, which he wished to correct. But, alas! the hand which had not lost its cunning had lost its strength, and, summoning his pupil Donndorf to his sick chamber, he requested him to make the desired changes in the head of the statue. With prompt obedience Donndorf set himself to the task under the eye of his dying master, who lived long enough to see the altered model and approve it. Nothing remained now but to mold the clay into plaster and send the completed whole to the foundry for final casting. But misfortune waited at the door, and through a subordinate's bungling manipulation the clay model was dropped upon the floor of the atelier and broken into fragments. Before another model could be made the eyes of the great master were closed in death. Meanwhile, time for the casting at the foundry was pressing, and within the space of four days Donndorf executed a new model of the Luther head, which was approved by Dr Schnorr, the head of the advisory commission, and without delay was adopted and put into bronze

How to Prepare to See Rome

Manhattan for January

An excellent preparation for seeing Rome intelligently is a few weeks at Pompeii. And to possess a comprehensive and special understanding of the Roman empire it to have, of a large part of Europe, a basic historical knowledge. In place of "application" to study the natural student learns spontaneously at Pompeii. We have the classics all about us. The ponderous dictionary, leather bound and worm eaten Lempriere, and better, Anthon's last edition, are here in pictures. We have only to learn the meaning of what we see. We should be fortified with the explanatory books, the several volumes which would make the under graduate's bundle on leaving home for the quarter—the semestre, the term which would be paid for and staid through. Pay for and stay it through here, where the lessons are in so engaging a form—the reality, the fascinating presence. Only within a century has all this been opened to the intelligence of English nations. And it has gradually impressed itself only since railroads have existed in Italy, which are a matter of one generation only. A half-day visit the average time, means a long and rapid walk, a glance possibly, without grasping the meaning of anything and coming away full of incomprehensibility

How Couldock Got Even

Denver Republican

A few years ago there was a well known actor by the name of McKean Buchanan or Old Ben, as he was familiarly called. At a hotel at Cairo Ill, he met Charley Couldock. The night was disagreeable, the meeting was a merry one. After partaking of a few glasses a game of poker was proposed. Now Couldock liked the sport, but was not in it as an expert. Buchanan was—not that he was never known to cheat, but he always won. In a short time Couldock was "cleaned out" and the party went to bed. Next morning "Buck" met Charley and said, "I am going out west for a little shooting recreation, but would like to act while out there as well. Do you know the manager at Cheyenne?" "I do," said the old man. "Well," said "Buck," "I wish you would give me a line to him." "Certainly," said Couldock, and he immediately rate the letter. It ran thus:

CAIRO Ill, December 7, 1867 —Mr Ruskin—My Dear Sir, This will be handed to you by my friend Mr McKean Buchanan, an actor of much merit. He comes to your town on professional business. He plays Virginius, Richelieu, Hamlet, Richard III, Shylock and poker. He plays poker the best. Your obedient servant,

C A COULDOCK

The Oldest Bank Notes

The oldest bank notes are the flying money" or "convenient money," first issued in China, 2697 B C. Originally these notes were issued by the treasury, but experience dictated a change to the banks under government inspection and control. A writer in a provincial paper says that the early Chinese "greenbacks" were in all essentials similar to the modern bank notes, bearing the name of the bank, date of issue the number of the note the signature of the official issuing it, indications of its value in figures in words, and in the pictorial representations in coins or heaps of coins equal in amount to its face value and a notice of the pains and penalties of counterfeiting. Over and above all was a laconic exhortation to industry and thrift: "Produce all you can spend with economy." The notes were printed in blue ink on paper made from the fiber of the mulberry tree. One, issued in 1390 B C, is preserved in the Asiatic Museum at St Petersburg.

Whittling

Notes and Queries

The practice of whittling is considered so distinctive of a genuine American that any attempt to claim for it an English origin would require ample corroboration. In a little work published in London in 1774, entitled "The Sentimental Exhibition, or, Portraits and Sketches of the Times," we find the following statement: "M Grosse or some other Frenchman remarks that when we English have no other employment we are sure to do mischief, and therefore, when a parcel of sailors go into an ale house at Wapping, the landlord delivers to each of them a stick and a knife to amuse themselves with while the flip is preparing, that they may not destroy the furniture"

THE SILENT STEED.

Exhibition Races of Bicycle vs. Horse at the Pike's Peak Park.

Lovers of athletic sports and admirers of physical culture gathered to the number of three or four hundred at the Pike's Peak Driving park yesterday afternoon to witness the exhibition of the League of Champion bicyclists. The track was in a wretched condition and it was impossible to make good time, but each one did the best he could and the result appeared satisfactory to the spectators.

After the parade of all the members of the organization the first event was a mile race between Miss Louise Armindo and Professor Rollinson. This was a very pretty exhibition, the machines being lapped for most of the way around. It was announced as a dead heat: time 5½ minutes.

Mr. John S. Prince and the horse Comanche Chief were next announced for a handicap race, the horse to run one and one-half miles, Mr. Prince one mile. The horse came in an eighth of a mile behind. Time 4:15.

The handicap race of Mr. Prince and Dr. F. D. Sanford was the closest and most exciting contest of the day. The conditions were as follows: Sanford, with standing start, to run 170 yards; Mr. Prince, with flying start, to make 200 yards. The latter won by two yards in 18¾ seconds.

A three mile race between the bicycle and trotting horse concluded the day's sport. It was between Henry W. Higham and Geo Aux's Errick. By a miscalculation of Mr. Higham's powers Errick was very prettily beaten by a length. The time was given as 13¼ minutes.

College Notes.

Mr. F. W. Manning will spend the holidays with his sister, who is teaching school at Longmont.

Mr. A. L. Bainter has entirely recovered from his late attack of typhoid fever, so that he will be able to play in the game of foot ball on Christmas.

Professor Sheldon is announced to give an address before the State Teachers' association at Greeley next Friday, on "The living teacher as a personal force in education."

The examinations were concluded on Wednesday, and the college closed for the holidays. The next term, known as the winter term, will commence January 2, 1884.

Two of the representatives from the Occidental club took part in the last joint exhibition while none of the institute's representatives participated in either one of the society exhibitions last year.

The programme for the entertainment, as far as it relates to the two societies, will be as follows:

Annual address.....F. E. Johnson
Declamation.....Lizzie A. R. Doak
Oration.....R. D. McLeod
Essay.....Jessie M. Howe
Debate.....Job Harriman and J. R. Pickett

The Occidental club at its late meeting elected F. E. Johnson to give the annual address, Miss Lizzie Doak to declaim and Mr. Job Harriman to debate. The Irving Institute elected R. D. McLeod, orator; Miss Lizzie Howe, essayist; and J. R. Pickett, debater.

Both of the societies have selected persons who are to represent them in the joint exhibition on Washington's birthday. The Occidental club have the annual address, the declaimer and one debater, and the Irving Institute have the orator, the essayist and the other debater.

The C. C. Y. L. O. C. F. H. and P. propose to give an exhibition some time next term. The young ladies who compose this organization have made rapid progress in the science of calisthenics. The officers of the organization are: Miss Mary S. Martin, president; Miss Annie Bean, vice president; Miss Susie Bean, secretary; Miss Persie Ayer, treasurer and Miss Lizzie Martin, sergeant-at-arms. Miss Annie Bean is also drill master.

Both of the literary societies elected officers last Friday evening. The Occidental club elected H. D. Johnson president, Miss A. Flynn vice president, Miss N. Hix secretary and treasurer and George Owen third member of the executive committee. The Irving institute elected Mr. John Gould president, Mr. F. H. Meserve vice president, Ernest Nourse secretary, Miss Thurston treasurer, and Mr. E. B. Curtis sergeant-at-arms.

The foot ball team has not been selected yet, and in all probability it will not be known who compose the team until a day or two before the match. Sufficient is it to say that several important changes in the composition of the team have been made. Under the able direction of F. E. Johnson, the boys have improved considerably in their manner of playing, and they are anxious to retrieve their former defeat, and are determined to go in and win. The game promises to be even more interesting and exciting than the last one, and the only fear at present is that the weather will be unfavorable for playing.

The following students have obtained a general average of 80 per cent or over in their examinations, thus entitling them to have their names on the roll of honor:

To give some idea of the character of the work which the United States history class has been doing this term we give a few of the questions asked in the examination last Wednesday morning:

Mention some of the indirect and direct causes of the revolutionary war?

What were writs of assistance?

What was the stamp act?

When and where was the first continental congress held?

What was the character of the early legislation of the home government in respect to the colonies?

What were some of the weaknesses of the confederation?

What were the steps which led to the formation of the constitution?

What was the financial policy of the first administration, and who was the author of it?

What was the Missouri compromise? the omnibus bill? the Kansas-Nebraska bill? and squatter sovreignty?

On what did the military strength of the confederacy turn?

What was accomplished in the campaign of 1861 by the union forces?

What were the plans of the union forces in the year 1862, and how many of them succeeded?

What battles in 1863 were favorable to the confederates?

What was the condition of affairs at the beginning of 1864?

Reception to Hancock.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 20. A grand reception was tendered Hancock this evening at the Pavilion, which was handsomely decorated for the occasion. He was accompanied from the Palace hotel by Governor Stoneman, Mayor Bartlett, state federal officials and a detachment of state militia. Five thousand invitations were issued. On entering the main hall the immense concourse saluted the general with a burst of cheering and waving of handkerchiefs. The mayor made a formal address, to which the general happily responded. He made an excellent impression on all present.

Chinese Merchants.

SAN FRANCISCO, December 20.—Judge Hoffman of the United States district court practically decided to-day in a Chinese trader habeas corpus case that if a Chinaman, a laborer in his own country, came to this country with the purpose, according to testimony adduced, of going into merchandising business, he is under United States laws a merchant.

1884.
Harper's Magazine.
ILLUSTRATED.

HARPER'S MAGAZINE begins its sixty-eighth volume with the December Number. It is the most popular illustrated periodical in America and England, always fully abreast of the times in its treatment of subjects of current social and industrial interest, and always advancing its standard of literary, artistic and mechanical excellence. Among its attractions for 1884 are a new novel by William Black, illustrated by Abboy; a new novel by E. P. Roe, illustrated by Gibson and Dielman; descriptive illustrated papers by George H. Boughton; Frank D. Millet, C. H. Farnham and others; important and historical papers; short stories by W. D. Howells, Charles Reade, etc.

Mr. E. A. Thayer came up from Salida on the Salt Lake train last night and registered at The Antlers.

The League of Champions go to Pueblo today, thence to Salt Lake and California, and later to Australia.

Mr. George S. Brintnall, who spent the past year in this city for his health, died in Chicago this week.

Wednesday night was one of the coldest experienced in this locality this winter. As yet the mercury has not gone below zero.

Messrs. M. W. Everleth and George Macklin are officiating as clerks at Howbert Bros. Their large holiday trade demanded an increase in the force.

General B. F. Crowell has gone to California to remain during the greater part of the winter. He seems to think a change of climate will benefit his health.

To night there will be a spelling bee at the Presbyterian church. Valuable prizes will be given to the successful competitors and a very interesting time is looked for.

We hope that Manager Nye will meet with success in his trip through the state with the Boston Operatic Minstrels. The company is a good one and deserving of patronage.

Many of the Sunday schools of the city are preparing for Christmas eve celebrations. Besides the Christmas trees there will be interesting literary and musical exercises.

As will be seen by announcement in another column the carnival which was to have taken place at the roller rink to-night has been postponed until Wednesday, December 26th

The Antlers arrivals: C H Zimmerman, W B Tuttle, Denver; Lee Well, Kansas City; C A Apthorpe, city; C A Anderson, Boulder; G W Lainson, Colorado; F C Graves, Boston; E A Thayer, Salida.

Do not forget the spelling bee at the Presbyterian church to-night. The entertainment promises to be interesting and instructive, as well as amusing. The prizes are on exhibition in the window of Howbert Bros.' store, and all who attend can compete for them. Admission only twenty-five cents.

Manager Nye is as yet unable to say what show will come next. Rice's Surprise Party was booked, but they have disbanded. All effort will be made to run an excursion from Colorado Springs to Denver to see the Boston Ideal company either next week or the week following.

The Free Methodists will hold a quarterly commencing Friday evening at seven o'clock, December 21st, 1883, to hold over the Sabbath. Meetings will be held in the south room of the National hotel building. All are invited to attend. Rev. J. F. Garrett will have charge.

Wilmer Trowbridge, a young gentleman who is sojourning in Colorado Springs for the winter, is making a specialty of mounting Colorado birds in a very artistic manner on plaques. On the plaques are the words Merry Christmas and Happy New Year. They make very suitable gifts for the holidays and can be seen at Ainsworth Brown's.

The case of the People vs. Charles Spencer charged with rape was called before Justice [illegible]. An application was made [illegible] defendant's attorney for a change of venue which was granted, and Spencer will have a hearing before Justice Roberts of Colorado City on the 29th inst. In the meantime Spencer will be released on good and sufficient bonds.

Since the coming here of the League of Champions many of the young gentlemen of Colorado Springs have become quite infatuated with bicycle riding, and there is some talk of the organization of a club. There is however an existing ordinance prohibiting bicycle riding on our streets which may put a damper on the project. Such an ordinance in many of the large cities of the east has never been enforced, as the supreme court has decided that a bicycle is a vehicle and entitled to the freedom of public highways.

IMPORTANT TO TRAVELERS.

Close connections are now made by the D. & R. G. railroad in Union depot at Denver with the "Burlington Route" trains, thus enabling passengers from this city to take the popular line to all points east, making same time as by other roads with the advantage of going via Denver. Parties anticipating a trip east should procure tickets over this favorite route. Fast time and sure connections to Omaha, Kansas City, Chicago and the east. f-19-tf
